

The Stage

By BIDE DUDLEY

THERE was a big time at the National Vaudeville Artists' Club yesterday afternoon. The children of the members—or some of them—had a party, at which Santa Claus appeared, and there was real ice cream. Little Mary Allen Luescher, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark A. Luescher, was the hostess, and she proved very attractive in that role. While the youngsters lunched, dancers from the Hippodrome and other places entertained on the stage and there was a Punch and Judy show, a ventriloquist, a sleight of hand man and even Pat Rooney and his son. Pat danced all over the stage, and the boy wiggled very artistically. We'd like to give the names of the kids present, but space forbids. Assisting the hostess in entertaining them, however, were Mrs. Oliver Harriman, Mrs. Edwin Lauder Jr., Mrs. Mark A. Luescher, Mrs. J. J. Murdock, Mrs. Maurice Goodman, Mrs. J. Henry Walters, Mrs. L. E. Thompson, Mrs. Frank Vincent, Mrs. Amadeo Van Buren and Mrs. R. H. Burnside. Among the children was a tall, lean newspaper man, who was the cynosure of all eyes because of his striking personal beauty and his ability to devour hashed chicken.

ORLOB, PRODUCER.

It develops that Harold Orlob, composer, is the producer of "Take a Chance," the new musical comedy now in rehearsal. Mr. Orlob has written the music and H. I. Phillips, of the Globe, the book and lyrics. "Phillips," says the Orlob announcement, "is the third humorist from the staff of a New York daily newspaper recently to join the ranks of the playwrights. Franklin J. Adams and Don Marquis's successes make Mr. Orlob hopeful for the fate of his protégé's first libretto."

We always knew we were a black-smith.

SEE WHAT ART DONE.

Arthur Rosenfeld, who is known internationally as the Picture-Frame poet, has had another attack. Have a look: Oh, glorious Gloria; sweet Gloria Foy. In "Up She Goes" you are really a joy. Your singing, your acting, your dancing divine. Touches all hearts, including mine. So there, Gloria!

BOOTS FOR TRINI.

Trini, the Spanish dancer, now coming to New York, heard of the slush by air yesterday and wirelessed the Messrs. Shubert to dig her up some boots for outdoor wear. "But I shall go barefoot indoors," said the message. So!

OH, GEE, M'GEE!

Harold McGee, Stage Manager of "Gringo" at the Comedy Theatre, sneaked away Saturday night and took a train for Schenectady. Yesterday the report that, in spite of the town's name, he had married one of its fairest daughters, leaked out, and the "Gringo" company made him admit it. We haven't her pre-marriage name, but wait—we'll get it some of these days and slap it right into the paper.

IT WAS MAMMA, ALL RIGHT.

Last night, when Philip Tonge, who has the role of the Earl of Kinloch in "The Bunch and Judy" at the Globe, was through, he went to the stage entrance of the Fulton and stood there. Along came a cop. "Move on," said the bluecoat. "I'm waiting for my mother," said Tonge. "Pretty good!" came from the cop.

And then he had an idea. "I'll let you wait," he said. "But she better be your mother or I'll run you in." It wasn't long until Lillian Brennan, playing in "Secrets," came out. "Hello, mamma!" said Tonge. And it was true. Miss Brennan is Tonge's mother, although she really looks as though she might be his daughter. "Well, mebbe," said the cop.

GOSSIP.

"Polly Preferred" opened in Hartford last night. "The Gingham Girl" may play the Garrick, London, in the spring. Madge Kennedy, in "Spite Corner," closes her run at the Little Theatre on Jan. 6. Lee Shubert announces the engagement of Theda Bara for "Jitta's Atonement." Special Sunday night concerts will be given at the Century, Shubert, Ambassador and Casino Theatres.

A THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY.

No wonder Edward Krenn has made plans to marry Mrs. McCormick. Architects usually make plans.

FOOLISHMENT.

Old maids who say they would not wed. Are insincere a sage has said. If you, young man, think this untrue. Propose and see what comes to you.

FROM THE CHESTNUT TREE.

"My ancestors came over in the Mayflower." "That's nothing. Mine sailed in the Ark."
